

THE METHOD

As a whole, the psalms comprise perhaps the best place in Scripture from which to pray Scripture. The basis of this claim is the original purpose for which God inspired the psalms. The book of Psalms—which means "book of praises" in Hebrew—was the songbook of Israel. The psalms were inspired by God for the purpose of being sung to God.

In light of this, we want to commend to you a systematic approach for praying a psalm each day. It's called "Psalms of the Day." If you intend to pray through a psalm, using the Psalms of the Day approach helps you avoid thumbing through the middle of your Bible, randomly searching for a psalm that looks interesting. Too often, such an inconsistent process results in omitting many of the psalms. It also can slow your devotional momentum as you find yourself aimlessly meandering through chapters instead of praying.

With the Psalms of the Day, you take thirty seconds or so to quickly scan five specific psalms and pick the one that best leads you to prayer on that occasion. It's based on taking the 150 psalms and dividing them by thirty days (because most months have at least thirty days). That results in five psalms per day.

Or to put it another way, if you were to read five psalms a day for an entire month, at the end of the month you would have read through the entire book of Psalms. While reading five Psalms a day is a great practice that many enjoy, that's not what we're advocating here. What we're suggesting is that you take half a minute to quickly scan five psalms and pick one of those five to pray through.

EXAMPLES OF PRAYERS

Suppose today is the twentieth of the month. The Psalms of the Day are 20, 50, 80, 110, and 140. After a quick scan of them, let's say you settle on Psalm 20 as the one you might read the beginning of verse 1 - "May the LORD answer you in the day of trouble!" - and pray:

Lord, please answer me today. I am in trouble - my finances are in trouble, my body is in trouble, and my relationships are in trouble. O answer me today, Lord, because I am in trouble in so many ways.

Then you read the second half of verse 1: "May the name of the God of Jacob protect you!" That prompts you to pray something like this:

Thank you, God of Jacob, that through your Son, Jesus, you have set me securely on high by your grace. I will never fall. By your work of preserving me through the Holy Spirit, I am securely set on high. The Bible says in Ephesians that I am seated in the heavenly places with Christ. Thank you for the security of that and all you have done for me in Christ.

Eagerly you turn to verse 2 and read, "May He send you help from the sanctuary." You pray:

O God, send me help today right from the sanctuary of heaven itself. Send me help with my finances, send me help with my children, send me help in my work. From the highest place of authority that exists, send me help with my lack of faith. Send me heavenly help with temptation today. Please send me help right from the throne room of heaven, O Lord.

You might pray for heavenly help for many things, and then you read verse 3: "May He remember all your offerings and regard with favor your burnt sacrifices!" This might suggest to you words such as these:

Heavenly Father, my offering to you are the life and death of Jesus, your perfect Son. He is the offering you accept. Jesus is the sacrifice you will receive. I do give myself to you afresh, Lord – all that I am and all that I have. But, I know that you will regard these with favor, and I believe you will hear my prayer for help from the sanctuary, because I offer them all in the name of the perfect offering, Jesus.

And thus you continue through the psalm until you run out of time or you run out of psalm.
